Demo Sunday 20 June

Assemble 12:30 pm, Stepney Green Park, Stepney Green, London E1 3DG – march to Altab Ali Park, Aldgate East

The racist English Defence League (EDL) is planning to turn up in Tower Hamlets, East London, on Sunday 20 June. They want to spread hatred and division in our multiracial, multicultural community and intimidate the Muslims who live here.

East London has a proud tradition of unity against racism and fascism. Since 1936, when the fascists tried to march in Cable Street, the East End has always come together to oppose them.

That's why we are asking you to join our demonstration against the EDL. We want to unite to oppose their racism and to celebrate the diversity of our community. EDL thugs have been targeting Muslims and mosques in recent months, whipping up hatred, division and violence wherever they have been allowed to march.

EDL supporters have been caught on camera giving Nazi salutes during their rallies and marches.

The EDL has links to the BNP and other fascist organisations. Our unity march against the EDL will assemble at 12:30pm in Stepney Green Park. There will be music organised by Love Music Hate Racism. We will then march to Altab Ali Park, Aldgate East, which is named after a young Bengali man who was murdered in East London by racists in 1978.

Let's come together for a peaceful and united protest to show the EDL racists that they are not welcome in a peaceful East London. Join us on 20 June and spread the word.
